ROAD TO WAUREGAN. To Be Extended from Brooklyn Village by Vote of Special Meeting.

Voters gathered at a special town meeting in Brooklyn Saturday after-noon were recorded as unanimously in favor of extending the state aighway now under construction southward from Brooklyn village toward Waure-gan from the point where the present contract ends to the bridge in Wau-regan, the boundary line between the towns of Brooklyn and Plainfield, provided the state highway commission-er approves the layout and will agree in writing to reimburse the town with three-fourths of the money spent on construction, after the work is com-construction, after the work is completed.

The piece of road that it is proposed to build—something less than a mile in length—is part of one of the trunk lines of the state and it is for this reason that many voters of the town have felt in the past that Brooklyn should not bear the expense of its construction. Under the vote as passed, however, if everything works well, as has been indicated will be the case, the road can be built without delay, the town meeting the expense and later receiving seventy-five per cent. of the cost back from the state. Residents of West Wauregan are particularly anxious to have the road built.

E. C. Babson was moderator of the meeting, which was very harminious. It is estimated that the cost of the dytension voted Saturday will be between $6,000 and $8,000 and the trees. tension voted Saturday will be be-tween $5,000 and $8,000 and the treas-urer of the town has been authorized to borrow money to meet the cost of building if the arrangement with the state highway commissioner voted for can be brought about.

Putnam Public Building Matter Bothers Them at Washington,

The following Washington, D. C., item is of local interest. The Putnam public building case appears to be in a tangle. The sundry civil appropriation bill carries $22,000 for "completion" of the building when work on it has not yet begun. So far the government has nly acquired a site there. It was rumored today that the bill authorized the exchange of the site for another that is favored by Congressman of the second district of Connecticut and many citizens of Putnam, but that provision could not be found. Mr. Mahan conferred with the members of the house building committee today about the Putnam cese. Representative Lonegan, a member of the committee, has arranged for a hearing before the committee Monday (today) upon Congressman Mahan's proposition that the appropriation for Putnam be increased by $20.000 so that a different site could be bought.
